

Dr. LAURI LEHT, is the head of digital archives in the National Archives of Estonia since 2008. Previously he has worked in the National Archives as an internal auditor and a management advisor since 2001. He is involved in the development of the digital preservation systems in the National Archives and is responsible for several major digitization projects. He has graduated Tartu University on business administration and business IT systems, has gained the degree of Certified Internal Auditor (CIA) by the IIA and has passed the Estonian national certification as an archivist.