

Dr. ANDREA MEVORACH, was born in 1962 and is an entrepreneur who works and has always lived in Venice (Italy). After completing the secondary school in humanities (liceo classico), he attended mechanical engineer faculty at Padua University. He achieved a degree in Business Administration in Turin and after the university studies he soon entered the Group of industries leaded by his family, active in the textile field and operating with factories in Italy and Germany, USA, Brasil, Thailand, Sweden, France. Export to 66 countries around the world. Mr. Mevorach in fact frequently moved to many countries for a lot of years. In his early career, he had been playing an important role leading the Group for many years. After selling the Family Company to a Dow Jones listed Group, he successfully exploited other activities in the Real Estate field. He acquired a company producing sunglasses and developed a notable shipyard in Venice combining also his love for the sea by founding a luxury charter activity. He represents the fifth generation of entrepreneurs. He has now directed his last efforts in the Real Estate, creating a Fund active in building high tech archives, developing projects for modern prisons, security citadels, large police head departments and so on, projects that proved to be of interest also in several countries. Mr. Mevorach is a member of many Boards of directors of private and public companies. At present Andrea is member of the Italian Academy by the Columbia University (New York) in the Board of Guarantors. Mr. Mevorach speaks correctly and fluently Italian, English and German.