

Mr. JOVAN P. POPOVIĆ, studied law at the University of Belgrade. Between 1977 and 2000 he held positions of acting director and director of Archives of Yugoslavia. He also held a position of ambassador of Federal Republic of Yugoslavia. After leaving the Archives of Yugoslavia he has focused on advocacy, journalism and continued with archivistics. He is a member of law society, archivists as well as librarians society, and historical society. He has received several national and foreign awards, decorations and plaquettes. In 2007 he has received three awards: “Atlanti” statuette, awarded by International Institute of Archival Science Trieste – Maribor; Universitas Iuris Naturalis Copenagicensis award by Kopenagik School of Natural Law and honorary diploma of VNIIDAD for “special contribution and scientific credit in the field of archival theory and practice, as well as for active and successful cooperation with Russian archivists”. In 2009 he received a diploma by International Institute of Archival Science Trieste – Maribor and “Listina” award by Regional Archives Maribor (Pokrajinski arhiv Maribor) “for several years of active cooperation in the field of collection and presentation of papers based on archival legislation of various countries”. He has published some 150 papers in Serbian and foreign periodicals, and has also written or co-written 15 scientific publications.